2 Board School

1879	742	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Plan of the Board School, Chywoone Hill. It containing two spacious, well built rooms at either end, connected by classrooms. Boys and the girls occupied different parts of the building: at the school gate, the boys turned left into the boys' school; the girls walked across the boys' playground and through a gate into the girls' playground, then left into the girls' school, which was distinguished by the bell-tower that was housed in a narrow shaft that ran down next to the classrooms. Soil pit toilets were located in the playgrounds. Redrawn by PL.

Some papers from census. Emily Glasson married Thomas Batten but died soon after the marriage in 1893 aged 24.
1897	1335	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	Newlyn Board School, 1897. Photo: Geo W Holden, Birmingham. Elizabeth Bone Jeffery (Michell) 1891-1957 is in the bottom row, 3rd from right. Her sister Mary Jane Jeffery (Jardine) 1888-1959 is directly behind her. Both girls lived at Trellis Cottage, Jack Lane at the time. It's possible that Olive Chirgwin (Richards) is in this photo. Olive was a long time friend of Elizabeth and they went to school together. Both lived in Akron, Ohio after 1909. In 1987, the headmistress of the Girls' Department was Cordelia James and could be the woman on the left, and the second year pupil-teacher was Mary James, perhaps the young woman on the right.

1949	4156	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	In 1949/50 or thereabouts, the senior class of 13/14 year olds at Tolcarne School, with the assistance of the Headmaster, Lesley White, wrote a skit, based on fictitious Newlyn fishing characters. It was written with the help of Lesley White, and performed by the class at a school concert, and was well received. Each student wrote it down in a notebook, and this copy was written down by Barry Freethy, a boy in the class. The skit was set in 1800, and it is interesting that during the skit, there was discussion of the confusion over the actual start of the new millennium, with the comment that there would be the same discussion in 1900 and 2000. Initials were used for the name of the characters. "JHT" was John Hichens Thomas. Mary Llewellyn played the part of Grace, and recalled her relish in having to act out "Scat the man across the face"! (Mary Llewellyn Collection). Tapped version and original in exercide book belonging to B Freethy.
