A note on Reggie Hitchens. Reg was a Newlyn man, blind from birth, who lived in Boase Street. He received some formal musical education in his youth. In his most active years he was mainly associated with Centenary Chapel and Newlyn choir, giving sterling service to both. Even leading local singers referred to him as 'peerless Reggie' and he is fondly remembered. He was a tenor of almost faultless technique and considerable musical knowledge, but also a most tasteful and expressive singer. He was of course a frequent soloist in the area, but he deserved a wider audience. From Horton Bolitho
